

In this talk the speakers will share a small number of theoretical frameworks that they use to guide problem development and course structure. These approaches are relatively simple yet very powerful in terms of helping create meaningful learning experiences for students.